Standing Committee on Epidemiology and Health Services Research

Report to the General Assembly in Prague, June 2001

At the last EULAR congress in Nice this standing committee held an educational symposium on “Clinical Epidemiology in Practice”. This initiative was very well received and highly appreciated by the participants. Therefore, the committee organised a similar symposium at this congress.

The standing committee will together with the standing committee chairmen of “Education and Training” (Professor A Woolf) and “International Clinical Studies, including Clinical Trials” (Professor P van Riel) provide a course on Clinical Epidemiology, including clinical trials and selected topics in Bucharest, Romania from 29 September to 5 October 2001. Currently, the maximum number of participants for these small group tutorials is 40 people from eastern European countries, which has almost been reached.

The standing committee has started its own web site. Electronic communication will facilitate contact between members of the committee, and the committee is still willing and able to co-opt interested people eager to participate in activities of the standing committee.

Finally, the committee has prepared a protocol to study and compare the prevalence of rheumatoid arthritis and spondyloarthropathies in many EULAR countries following a successful French initiative (Professor F Guillemin). The feasibility of this study was assessed last year. Now EULAR has provided financial support to enable the first phase of this project to be started by members of the standing committee. The time of the committee will be devoted almost completely to implementation of this study. You will definitely hear more about this project next year at the EULAR Congress in Stockholm, Sweden.

Notes/news

The EULAR Congress in Prague attracted more than 8300 participants and was, therefore, by far the largest congress ever organised by EULAR. The EULAR Executive Committee wishes to express its gratitude and thanks to the local organisers, the speakers, the abstract review chairmen and, in particular, to the 96 additional abstract reviewers.

Volvo awards for low back pain research 2002

To encourage research into low back pain the Volvo Company for the 24th and final year will sponsor three prizes of $10 000 each. Awards will be made competitively on the basis of scientific merit in one or more of the following three areas:

- Clinical studies
- Bioengineering studies
- Studies in other basic science.

Papers submitted for the contest must contain original material, not previously published or submitted for publication. Multiple authorship is acceptable. The manuscripts, in English, should be in the form of a complete report, including original illustrations (please note: marked with names); not exceeding 15 typewritten pages (references and tables can be added); double spaced; typed text should not be smaller than Times 12 point; and in a form suitable for submission as an original paper to a scientific journal. Ethics committee approval is necessary for all animal studies and for controlled clinical studies. One original and five copies—including illustrations—must reach the address given below not later than 3 December 2001.

Accordingly, articles sent by fax will not be accepted. Do not forget to give complete address with telephone number, fax number, and email address. Winners will be informed at the end of February 2002.

One of the authors should be prepared, at his/her own expense, to come to Cleveland, Ohio, USA, at the time of the meeting of the International Society for the Study of the Lumbar Spine, 15–19 May 2002, to present the paper and to receive the award.

The board of referees will be chaired by Professor Alf Nachemson and will contain members from the field of clinical medicine, bioengineering, and biochemistry.

All correspondence should be directed to: Professor Alf Nachemson, Department of Orthopaedics, Sahlgrenska University Hospital, S-413 45 Göteborg, Sweden.
