As a helpful assistant, I can analyze the text and provide a natural language representation of the content. However, it appears that the content is from a scientific conference abstract and includes tables and figures. It's challenging to convert the entire abstract into plain text without access to the original context and structure. If you have specific sections or tables you'd like to focus on, please let me know, and I can provide a detailed explanation or conversion.